

BUYING ON PROXIBID WITH A DEADLINE? NO PROBLEM.

What happens when you receive an incredible opportunity at the last minute? John Miraglia of MC Communications was given a multi-million-dollar project with AT&T—a job he couldn't pass up—but his equipment fleet wasn't ready to manage the workload. John needed two trailers to haul supplies to the job site and didn't have time to spare in obtaining financing, bidding on equipment, or arranging transportation.

John has been a Proxibid buyer since January 2013 and often turns to Proxibid's heavy equipment auctions to fill his business needs. John found two trailers on Proxibid, but also took advantage of Proxibid's financing partnership with Express to quickly and easily access the capital necessary to place the winning bids. While John had the capital to purchase the trailers, the open line of credit allowed him to save money in the bank for other business costs that would arise with a project of this magnitude.

“I am thoroughly pleased with the line of credit from Express.”

“I am thoroughly pleased with the line of credit from Express,” said John Miraglia. “Not only did I have time to purchase two trailers, but there was ample cushion to transport the trailers from the vendor to start the project as fast as possible.”
